

Flexitime Tip⁸

Providing greater flexibility for employees in the Public Service to ensure the continuity of Government services.

Keep Learning and Growing

Continuous learning is important for our personal and professional success. While face to face training may be limited at this time, you can explore the numerous learning opportunities within and outside the Public Service.

- Speak with your supervisor about in-house training within your department such as exposure to different work, volunteer to serve on a committee, or seek a job rotation for a short-term or project opportunity.
- Free online learning opportunities are available in abundance. Search for your area of interest, sign up and get started.
- Contact the Learning and Development Unit at LDU@gov.vg for guidance on designing a learning plan or identify resources and development offered in the Public Service.
